FIRST EDITION.

MIDNIGHT.

THE CAPITAL.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, August 13, 1869.

FREEDMEN'S SAVING FUND.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Freedmen's Saving and Trust Company, Thursday afternoon, it appeared that the deposits for July were $411.672.32, and drafts $350,543.84; the total deposits amounted to $1,285,279.41, and assets to $1,334,373.68. This large sum is held by about fifteen thousand depositors, being an average of less than one hundred dollars to each.

SERIOUS RIOT.

Information has been received here that on Wednesday last a difficulty occurred at Heathsville, Northumberland county, Va., between some white and colored people, during the progress of which one of the latter was killed and several injured. The riot was suppressed by the authorities of that place.

APPOINTMENTS.

David T. Mann was to-day appointed Storekeeper for Philadelphia. W. T. Perkins was appointed Weigher in the New York Custom House in place of Gen. T. W. Egan. A number of appointments and promotions were to-day confirmed for the New York Custom House and Sub-Treasury.

POWER TRANSFERRED.

The war and navy departments have transferred to the treasury department the power to contract for the recovery of all vessels, both Confederate and Federal, which were sunk during the late war in southern and other waters.

GENERAL SHERMAN,

General Sherman left to-day for Philadelphia where he will join the party on board the Tallapoosa on the Navy Yard inspecting tour.

POLITICAL.

San Francisco Municipal Affairs.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SAN FRANCISCO, August 12.—The movement for the nomination of an independent ticket for municipal officers of this city, at the approaching election, has culminated in a call for a convention for that purpose. The nominations of the recent Democratic municipal convention have created undisguised dissatisfaction, and it is charged that open corruption prevailed in the convention and that a majority of the offices were put up for purchase. Never, since the Vigilance Committee ceased, has there been such interest manifested in municipal affairs. The leading journals demand decided and immediate action, and compare the present State and city affairs with those of 1856, and urge a general reformation.

Massachusetts Prohibitory Liquor Law.

BOSTON, MASS., August 13.—A caucus meeting of prohibitory liquor law party was held in Tremont Temple last night, to make a choice of delegates to the coming prohibitory convention. Although it was an aggregate city caucus, not more than sixty persons were present, who made choice of about double that number of delegates. Complaints were made that there was no apparent interest manifested on the part of the general public in the object of the caucus. Several noted anti-prohibition men were nominated among the delegates.

Tennessee U. S. Senator.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NASHVILLE, August 13.—The election of United States Senator by the next Legislature is exciting general interest. Etheridge and Johnson are the most prominent prospective candidates, though Cooper has many supporters. The Banner will take ground to-morrow, it is understood, strongly against Johnson.

Removed from Office.

MEMPHIS, August 13.—Robert Good and John Washington, steamboat hull inspectors, were removed from office to-day.

CHICAGO.

A New Railroad Project—Death of Commodore Jarvis.

[By telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHICAGO, August 13.—A Committee is now in session at the Tremont House, having under consideration a project for direct and continued railroad communication between this city and New Orleans via Paducah, Ky. The Committee consists of the following gentlemen: Hon. L. S. Trimble, member of Congress, First Congressional District, Ky., Judge J. M. Bigger, Paducah, Joseph Cooper, Ills., Joseph Piquet, Ills., Dr. J. A. Powell, Ills., J. K. Boyer, Ills., Samuel Shy, Ills., James C. Robinson, Ills., Hon. Samuel Tate, Memphis and Charleston Railroad, and General A. M. West, President of the Mississippi Central Railroad. The Committee formally closed a contract for building a line. A Chicago man is contractor. The Committee will meet again to-morrow.

Commodore Jarvis, United States Navy, died at Geneva, this State, yesterday, aged seventy-four years. He entered the navy in 1812 and has been on the retired list for many years. He was a native of Cambridge, Mass., and has resided at Geneva for a number of years.

CUBAN REVOLUTION.

Insurgent Convoy Captured—Flight of General Jordan—Poison Plot, Discovered.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HAVANA, August 13.—Count Valmazeda captured near Remancaugua a rebel convoy, General Jordan commanding, which was moving towards Holquin. The rebels took to flight after a short fight, and their commander escaped. This is considered the most important capture of the war.

The authorities at Santa Espiritu report that a rebel plot to poison the bread used by the inhabitants on a certain day had been discovered and a number of suspected parties arrested.

NEW YORK CITY.

Search for a Pirate—Dispatch from the Indian Commission—The Case of Pratt, the Texas Rioter—U. S. Soldiers in the Court Room.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, August 13, 1869.

San Domingo advices to August 2d say the United States steamer Seminole did not find the pirate steamer Telegraph at Samana, and was expected soon at San Domingo.

Mr. Wm. E. Dodge sends the following dispatch: "Camp Supply, Indian Territory, August 8th.—Our special Indian Commission Committee, consisting of F. R. Brunot, of Pittsburgh, Nathan Bishop and myself, of New York, are here, having left the railroad at Fort Hays and been crossing the plains for the past eight days under escort of Captain Robbins, of the 7th Cavalry, and forty men. We have found the road a very hard one, the weather very hot and water very scarce. We have not seen a habitation of any kind for two hundred and fifty miles, except Camp Dodge. There are now eighteen hundred Cheyennes and sixteen hundred Arapahoes waiting to go on reservations. We go from here two hundred miles further south to meet other tribes."

Judge McCunn announced he had adjourned the proceedings in the Pratt case to Monday, to wait the action of the United States Commissioner. The warrants against Marshal Barlow have been signed, but not issued. By this action the danger of a collision with the federal authorities is postponed, and will probably be averted. A report that the federal soldiers have been returned to Fort Hamilton is unfounded, they being still in the United States Court room. The Marshal does not apprehend any attempt to arrest him, but is determined not to be caught napping. He left for his home at Staten Island in the afternoon, guarded by soldiers to the ferry.

The Chinese visitors to-day viewed Wall street, the custom house, postoffice and Central Park.

The Eagen weighmaster frauds case has gone over till next Wednesday, the Government having finished its case. A large number of witnesses are to be called for the defence.

Singer, accused of causing the death of a child by an unnatural doctrine, has been discharged from custody, the coroner's jury having on medical testimony returned a verdict of death by pleuro pneumonia.

The steamship Main, from Bremen, has arrived here.

The Congressional Committee on Retrenchment, together with Senators Morril and Cattel of the Finance Committee, and D. F. Murphy, Senate Reporter, left Jersey City to-night in a Woodruff silver palace car for San Francisco via New Jersey, Pennsylvania Central and Fort Wayne Railroad. Several ladies accompany the party.

THE RAILROAD WAR.

The Conflict Transferred to the Courts.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ALBANY, August 13, 1869.

Hearing on the order of Judge Peckham, on what is known as the Omnibus complaint made by the Albany and Susquehanna Railroad and Wm. H. Rice, was to-day, by agreement of counsel, postponed to August 20th, and Judge Peckham granted an order, which was excepted to by the counsel of the Erie party, continuing the injunction and stay of proceedings under Judge Barnard's order.

A motion was made to set aside an order of Judge Barnard for a hearing at the special term in this district why the order appointing Mr. Pruyn Receiver should not be vacated. After an argument on the admissibility of affidavits, Judge Peckham decided that they could not be received, Erie counsel excepting, and granted an order setting aside so much of Judge Barnard's order as conflicted with the one issued by him, leaving in force the remainder, which relates to the hearing of the case on its merits.

Sheriff Parr arrived on a boat this morning with the peremptory non-bailable writs of attachment issued by Judge Barnard.

Business on the railroad has been resumed, Agent Banks being in charge, with McQuade as Superintendent. Banks has designated Treasurer Phelps as his deputy.

The proceedings to-day, before Surrogate Lawton, in the matter of the disputed receivership, were limited to the cross-examination of one or two witnesses, when an adjournment till next Wednesday was had.

The sheriff is unable to find Messrs. Pruyn, Ramsey and Van Valkenburg, for whom he has writs of attachment, non-bailable, issued by Judge Barnard, of New York.

PRESIDENT GRANT.

His Trip Over the Erie Road—Enthusiastic Reception at Different Points—He Proceeds to Corry, Pa.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ELMIRA, August 13.—President Grant, accompanied by his family, made a pleasure trip over the Erie Railroad to-day. He reached Susquehanna from New York at 3:10 in the afternoon, and after inspecting the extensive shops of the Company at that place, left in a special train for Hornellsville. At Binghamton, Owego and Waverly large crowds thronged to greet him. He arrived in this city at 7 o'clock this evening, accompanied by a delegation of our leading citizens. A very large concourse of people were at the depot to welcome him, and on his being introduced to the crowd by Hon. H. Brooks he was enthusiastically received. The train was delayed about fifteen minutes and during the time hundreds crowded around the car to shake hands with the President. He left for Corry, Pennsylvania, where he expects to spend a few days in looking through the oil regions.

The New Cotton Crop.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

MEMPHIS, Aug. 13.—The cotton prospects are less favorable. It is calculated the yield will not be larger in this vicinity than the crop of last year.

GALVESTON, Aug. 13.—Worms have appeared in the cotton on a number of farms along the Guadalupe and Sanmaraco rivers. But few have appeared in the upland crops.

GREAT BRITAIN.

DUBLIN, August 13.—The celebration of the capture of Derry passed off with much enthusiasm in various parts of the Island. At Belfast the Orange leader, Mr. Johnson, received an address and was presented with a sash and medal. The Orangemen had a grand procession with banners flying and guns firing. No disturbances are reported.

LONDON, August 13.—The Harvard and Oxford crews were out in their boats to-day, both showing good pace and strong pulling. The afternoon of Wednesday, 25th inst., has been finally agreed to and appointed as the time for the race. It has been settled that the Harvard crew shall be composed for the race as follows: Fay, (bow), Lyman, Simmons, Loring, (stroke).

FRANCE.

PARIS, August 13, via French Cable.—The Committee of the Senate are progressing in their examination of the Senatus Consultum. An amendment has been introduced providing that in case the Senate reject a bill which has been passed by the Corps Legislatif, a mixed Committee of Senators and Deputies be appointed to adjust the disputed points.

PARIS, August 13.—The project of empowering the General Council to elect members of the Senate is approved by a majority of the Committee on Senatus Consultum.

RUSSIA.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 15, via French Cable.—The assertions recently made in some journals that the Porte had information of a letter compromising the Viceroy of Egypt in respect to his relations with the Czar, are pronounced utterly false No such letter exists. The only correspondence exchanged in regard to the Viceroy was a notice sent by the Austrian Government to St. Petersburg that it was the intention of Ismail Pasha to visit the Russian Court, and to this a favorable reply was returned by the Czar.

PORTUGAL.

LISBON, August 13—via French Cable.—A new Ministey has been formed and is composed as follows: President of Council and Minister of Interior, the Duke of Laule; Minister of War, Maldonia; Minister of Finance, Bramacamp; Minister of Public Works, Labronvilla; Minister of Foreign Affairs, Mendez Leal; Minister of Marine, Ribellida Silva; Minister of Justice, Lucana de Castro.

EGYPT.

ALEXANDRIA, August 13, via French Cable.—The lowness of the river Nile excites great attention. The water is lower than it has been within one hundred and fifty years.

The prospect for cotton is favorable, and the crop is estimated at 1,750,000 cartos.

HUNGARY.

PESTH, August 13.—M. Deak and his party approve of the policy of reconciliation with Prussia and non-intervention in the internal questions of Germany.

SPAIN.

MADRID, August 13, via French Cable.—Twelve priests have been arrested at Burgos, charged with taking part in the Carlist insurrection.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

UNLAWFUL PROCEEDING.

Private Houses Entered and Searched by Police and the Occupants arrested Without Warrants.

A detatchment of the police force, under the supervision of Chief, Robert Hague, made a decent upon several houses situated in a court off Virgian alley, last night and arrested four women and three men, who were taken to the lock up, where six of the party were locked up, and the other required to deposit a sum of money for his appearance this morning. The excuse for this unlawful proceedings, as it unquestionably is, was that the houses were dens of vice and iniquity.

No honest thinking man will for a moment sanction such a gross violation of the principles of law and justice as this. If the houses upon which the descent was made are in fact houses of ill repute, the criminal law provides a remedy and clearly points out the course to pursue. If they were in any respect a nuisance or annoyance to the neighborhood, the manner of proceeding to abate the nuisance is equally clear, but in neither case will the law justify the entering and searching of a dwelling or other house and the arrest of the occupants without a warrant.

In Article V. of the Constitution of the United States we find that "no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law," and Article IX. section 8 of the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania declares that the people "shall be secure in their persons, houses and possessions from unreasonable searches and seizures, and that no warrant to search a place or seize any person or things shall be issued without probable cause supported by oath or affirmation." In no instance is an officer authorized to enter a house and make an arrest without a warrant, except in cases where that right or authority is clearly delegated by law, and so careful have been the law makers against infringing upon the personal rights of individuals that this power has been delegated in but two instances only.

If the parties occupying these houses or those frequenting them, misbehave in any way, or violate any law, civil or criminal, it is an easy matter to proceed against them in a regular way. If Chief Hague knows that either of the women arrested last night kept a bawdy house, why not make an information against her and have a warrant issued for her arrest?

In this instance they may have arrested the guilty parties, but it is the principle involved that we complain of. As an evidence that this loose manner of proceeding is a dangerous one, the officers last night entered the house of an honest but hard working wash woman, who was found at work when the door was opened. The house was in the vicinity of those formerly entered, and the Chief seeing a light through the window, ordered his officers to enter and arrest the inmates.

The first part of this arbitrary order was obeyed, but owing to the good sense and superior judgment of the officers who obeyed it, no arrests were made. If Chief Hague can take a squad of police and search one house in the city without first obtaining a warrant for that purpose, he has the same right to enter any and every house, and no man would be secure, but would at any moment, upon the whimsical notions of Mr. Hague be liable to be arrested and confined in the lock-up.

By a late act of Assembly the city is "empowered to suppress disorderly houses and houses of ill-fame within its limits," but that act does not authorize the Chief of Police to enter the house and arrest the occupants without a warrant, unless they are acting in a disorderly manner, no more than it authorizes him to apply a match to it and burn it down.

In the raid last night a colored woman's house was entered and she was arrested, notwithstanding she was the only person found on the premises. What will be the charge against her this morning. Certainly not disorderly conduct, as she was alone and sleeping when the officers reached her house. If the Chief knew her to be the keeper of a house of ill-fame it was his duty to make information against her as prescribed by law, and if he does not possess this knowledge he certainly had no right to enter her house and cause her arrest upon common rumor without a warrant.

We have no fault to find with the end or object aimed at by the Chief of Police, for we know that vice and immorality is stalking abroad throughout the city, and desire to see it checked, but we certainly protest against the means used for attaining that end. The zeal of the Chief to serve the city faithfully, we fear, has led him astray in this instance, to a greater extent even than in his unholy crusade against the canine race.

United States Court—Judge McCandless.

In the United States Court yesterday, a decree of forfeiture was entered in the case of the United States vs. the stills and one hundred barrels of whisky, owned by Robert Woods & Co., of Pittsburgh.

In the matter of E. W. Dunn & Co., against whom a petition in bankruptcy had been filed, H. A. Laird moved that the injunction previously granted, restraining his clients, Messrs. Gans & Co., creditors of Dunn & Co., from proceeding with a sale on an execution, be set aside. He asked this on the ground that an execution had been obtained by another party, and that the sale would be made immediately, thus leaving his clients out altogether. The application was refused, but another injunction was granted restraining this second party from proceeding with the sale, pending the proceedings in bankruptcy.

After Them.—The Collector of Internal Revenue has, we observe, turned his attention to retail dealers in whisky, &c., who have not taken out a United States license, and will enforce the law strictly to the letter. Stephen Cavanara was before Commissioner Gamble this morning, charged with carrying on the business of hotel keeper and retail liquor dealer without a United States license. He gave bail for trial. Dealers not having complied with the law should take warning and procure a license at once, as they will save trouble by so doing.

The Weather.

MESSRS EDITORS: The following were the indications from July 8th to August 8th: Twenty cloudy and variable, thirteen of which will be rain and nine sunshine days. Record: Eighteen cloudy and variable, thirteen rain, twelve sunshine and seven thunder storm days. Amount of rain, three inches. Average of the river, six feet. Daily average of the thermometer, 71; same days 1868, 77, or 175 degrees warmer in the lunar month. The atmosphere is pure, and conducive to good health and good crops, but has been remarkable for being surcharged with moisture, which many have experienced in getting friction matches to take fire in the morning. The present or coming storm indicates a large amount of rain. But the present lunar month indicates a pleasant, rather warm and middling month for rain, approaching sultry, and a healthy growth in agricultural departments.

INDICATIONS.

From August 8th to September 6th: Seventeen cloudy and variable, eleven rain and twelve sunshine days. Warm but not continued hot nights.

Pittsburgh, August 14th, 1869. G. A.

Cut His Board Bill.—Samuel Raub, a tavern keeper, made information before Alderman Koenig yesterday charging Joseph Kneirnin with secretly removing his baggage from the hotel of the deponent for the purpose of defrauding him out of a bill of fifteen dollars for board. A warrant was issued.

The Duty of Conductors.

During the past few months disagreements have taken place on different railroads in Philadelphia between passengers and conductors respecting the right of holding articles or money found in the cars. On Saturday, says the Ledger, a passenger in one of the City Railway cars picked up in the car a portemonnaie containing $14 06, and several railway tickets. The conductor, noticing the circumstance, demanded the portemonnaie, stating that it was his duty to retain all moneys and articles found in his car and hand them to the receiver on the return of the car to the depot. A dispute then took place between the parties, and the finder refused to yield to the demand of the conductor. The car was immediately stopped and the aid of Reserve Officer Robbins solicited. While the controversy was going on the conductor obtained by force the portemonnaie, alleging that as he was responsible he would keep it until his return to the depot, when he would give it to the proper person for safe keeping. The matter created considerable feeling on the part of the passenger, who threatened to have the right of the conductor to the money determined by legal process. From information obtained, it appears to be a settled custom among the railway companies to require of all their conductors an immediate delivery to their depots of all articles found in their cars; a register of the same being kept by the persons in charge, in order to afford an opportunity to regain their goods. A legal opinion has been given sustaining the course pursued by railway companies, so far as relates to goods or money found by conductors in their cars, but in all cases where a passenger finds money or lost articles he or she is required to give their name and residence to the conductor, with a description of the articles found, but they can retain the articles until the proper owner claims them.

The New Spanish Ministers.

The Madrid correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette writes:

"Of the three new comers, two, Ardanaz and Echegaray, are road engineers, and their colleague, Becarra, a small journalist, who has fought more than once at the barricades. None of the three have ever been ministers before, nor have had any connection with politics except as agitators. Politics in Spain are a trade, but a trade in which there is no apprenticeship. Every man learns what he thinks the business for himself, in no school in particular. Ardanaz is said to be a less zealous free-trader than Figuerola, which does not look well for the prospects of our financial treaty, while there is no reason for supposing that he is an abler or honester man. Figuerola's admirers boast that he retires with clean hands, which, singular as it sounds to us, is a distinction in Spain. His enemies—probably some spiteful Catalans—have set going a paragraph about his having made suspicious investments in the English funds. It was Echegaray who some three months ago discovered the burning-place of the Inquisition—the Quisadero—which proved to be a mare's nest, or rather a donkey's nest, for the bones were found to be those of a donkey, and the place was proved to have been part of the site of a manufactory of patent leather, where the remains of animals used in this operation were thrown out."

THAT feudalism is not yet extinct in Prussia is shown by an extraordinary incident which has occurred near Hohenstein, in the Hartz. The estate of Werna, in this district, has for centuries been in the possession of the Spiegel family, though it was held in fee of the Count von Stolberg. Last spring the present occupier of the property publicly denied the fealty, and as such denial, according to the old feudal law, would deprive the lord of his rights, Count von Stolberg immediately called upon Herr von Spiegel to give up the estate. The latter refused and made all the necessary preparations for defense. The gate was barred, the laborers on the estate were drilled every day, and taught to fire at a target, sentries were posted at various places and relieved every two hours. A large placard has been posted up at the gate with the inscription, "No thoroughfare for robber-knights." (Verbotener eingang fur alle Raubritter.) It is said that Count Stolberg will shortly arrive with a band of armed men to take forcible possession of the property, and people are curious to know how this medieval scene in the middle of the nineteenth century will end.

A PARODY.

Broke! broke! broke!
And the world has gone down to the sea,
And I would that my wallet could furnish
Wherewithal to transport thither me.

Oh, well for old Spriggins's heir,
He can drive with his chestnut and gray;
Oh, well for old Robinson's son,
He can sail in his yacht on the bay;

While a little snip sits there,
In his shop at the foot of the hill,
And he says that I owe for the coat on my back,
Well, I think I shall owe for it still.

Broke! broke! broke!
Oh, wouldn't I go down to the sea,
If the vanished stamps of a day that's dead
Would only come back to me!

[From the Nation.]

SOCIAL DISTINCTIONS FROM BRIDGET'S STANDPOINT.

There was one period in the domestic history of the Roman empire which must have been full of humorous and odd situations, but of which, owing to the destruction of the files of great dailies, monthly magazines, and religious and other weekly newspapers by Alaric, who hated the press, not a trace has come down to us—we mean the period when, manners having become very luxurious, and social life splendid and complicated, British, Thracian and German slaves fresh from the forest were constantly called upon to act as waiters, grooms, valets, cooks, and so forth. It is useless to tell us that the newly caught savages were first used as field hands, and tied up in the ergastula over night, and that it was after long training that they were employed in menial duties, properly so called—if indeed the Roman-born slaves were not always reserved for this class of service. This was, no doubt, true of the great establishments; but there must have been plenty of Romans of moderate means who, when they wanted a cook or man-of-all-work, went to the market and bought a cheap newly imported barbarian, and, having taken him home went through the agony of seeing him break their dishes and wine jars, upset their lamps, and spoil their victuals. We know very well that many people feel warranted in supposing, on the strength of one passage in Juvenal, that, when things went wrong in this way, the master went out, dug a hole, set up a cross, and crucified the clumsy servant: but this can hardly have been a common practice. The vast majority of Romans bore with him as best they could, larupped him probably with moderation, and the mistress, when she went to the baths, told amusing stories to her friends of the queer things he had done, and of his ignorance of the usages of genteel Roman life. Now, what would we not give for a volume of these stories! Some of them must have been curious beyond imagination, because the contrasts they described must have been such as have never been seen in the modern world.

And yet we are probably now witnessing in the United States the last of a state of things not very far removed from it in grotesqueness and oddity. Since the fall of the Empire, nothing so closely resembling this one feature of domestic life in Rome, has ever been witnessed as the efforts of Americans during the last thirty years to get their housework done by European, and particularly Irish immigrants. The classes in Europe which employ servants have ever since found or formed servants for their work among their own countrymen, possessing a certain familiarity with their ways, and prepared for household duties either by acquaintance with them from childhood or gradual training. It has fallen to the lot of the Americans to be forced suddenly to receive into their houses a great body of aliens, fresh from a mode of life not very much superior to that of the ancient Germans, as described by Tacitus, and to trust to the performance, without any preparation, of the thousand small domestic duties on which so much human happiness depends.

The result has been a body of comedy which, if preserved, would not only be one of the most amusing pieces of literature in existence, but would throw more light on American civilization and manners in our day than anything the celebrated coming historian will find to his hand. One hears every day perfectly well authenticated anecdotes, which for comicality and illustrative and descriptive absurdity have never been surpassed, and which ought to be written down, but which thirty years hence will be forgotten. By that time, the typical Bridget of the magazines will have become a faint memory. The supply of her is already beginning to slacken, and she is getting old. Before long she will be simply known as the mother of innumerable Maggies and Minnies, who will work sewing machines, and make watches, and tend power-looms, read the "Ledger" and "Godey's Lady's Book," and be a good deal "out of health."

The Chinaman will by that time have taken her place, and, heathen and outlandish though he be, he will never be half as amusing as she has been, because though American ways may be very strange to him, he has in him something which Bridget has not, and which is the main stay of Chinese civilization, and that is a highly developed imitative faculty, what he has once seen done; and—though he may copy without intelligence, like the California Chinaman who, having been shown by his mistress how to make a pudding containing three eggs, but having seen her throw one bad egg away, continued for months after, whenever he made the pudding, to use four eggs, regularly breaking, examining and throwing one away as he had seen her do—and, it will be found that a capacity for routine is perhaps, on the whole, far more valuable in a household than intelligence—if we have to choose between them. Untrained intelligence is apt for a good while to run into mere zeal, which in housekeeping, as in diplomacy, is a dreadful thing. Anyhow, the Chinaman is coming, and we venture to predict that he will, in twenty years, have totally superseded Bridget.

Like nearly all actual observers of social and political phenomena, we do not know, or do not consider how future generations will consider the household crisis through which we are now passing, and how eagerly they will pick up all scraps of information about the effect on American life of the great European emigration of the nineteenth century. To be sure, the subject has been greatly discussed in periodical literature, but the discussions have been too homiletic or reflective, and not sufficiently narrative or anecdotal for the purposes of the future historian. We ought to have a printed collection of the incomparable stories now current in every circle, of the extraordinary things Bridget has done, of the pretensions she has put forward, and the mistakes she has committed.

There is one of her difficulties which only few Americans understand, and which, nevertheless, must be understood in order to judge her fairly. There is something almost pathetic in her attempts to grapple with it. It lies in the confusion in which she is involved by finding the standard she has been in the habit of using at home to ascertain the social position of her employer—and thus satisfy herself whether, when she changes her place, she has risen or fallen in the social scale—almost utterly useless on her arrival in America. The following advertisement, which appeared in the Herald a few days ago, is a very amusing illustration of the fog in which she gropes her way for a good while after landing, if not all her life:

WANTED—A SITUATION—By a woman, as cook in a private family; the family to be high in society as a Lord's family is in Europe. Apply at No. 125 West Twenty-fifth street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues.

In Ireland, she has tolerably easy work in rating people. The land-owner—or, as she is in the habit of called him, "the estated gintleman"—occupies, in her mind, as he does in that of the rest of the community, the highest place; if he is a "Lord," so much the better; but a "Lord" is, after all, only a superfine land-owner; the title is a mere ornament on an article in itself good and substantial. After the land-owner come the professional classes—barristers, doctors, and ministers of the Established Church—and she, of course, grades these, in some degree, by their wealth and connections, but still puts none of them down very low.

With merchants of means she is not familiar; and has the old feudal or—what is still more intense—Celtic clansman's doubts whether a trader can ever be a gentleman. She grows up with the idea that this is the natural order of society, which was from the beginning and shall be to the end, and does not even dream of the existence of any other arrangement of classes. She arrives in America with her scale in her hand, and finds it utterly useless. The equivalent of the country gentleman she looks for in vain. She would probably put in his place an idle man drawing a large income from any source, but him she does not light upon, or sees only in very small numbers. On beginning her practical acquaintance, too, with American life, she finds that—no matter how fine the house in which she undertakes to cook, sweep, dust, or wash,—the owner probably has "a store" to which he repairs daily, and in which he passes most of his waking hours at work. Now this fact, when she first grasps it, is more than "a painful revelation" to her. It absolutely disorders her faculties and destroys some of her best qualities.

The horrible feeling takes possession of her that her master and mistress are not "a rale lady and gintleman," and, after a brief period of sauciness, she tries again—perhaps advertises for a "Lord," in order to make assurance doubly sure—and on finding that everybody either has "a store," or associates with people who have, she concludes that in the new country wealth is the only standard of respectability; and to wealth merely, apart from occupation or birth, she never brings herself to pay any respect much less "petty allegiance."

In attempting to judge people by the standard of wealth, however, she again finds herself plunged in difficulties. She has certain notions about the manners peculiar to gentlemen of which she cannot rid herself, and which exercise a disturbing influence on her investigations. It is simple enough to divide families as she does—into "first class," and "second-class"—according to the kind of house they live in, and the number of servants and horses they keep; we have heard of her asking a lady at an intelligence office "whether she was a first-class family."

But then, if the head of the family does not answer her ideal in respect to dress, bearing and exigence, she is again plunged in doubt. The nature of her difficulty here is well illustrated by what she said the other day when giving warning to a lady on the ground that her master was not a gentleman; her previous employer was a gentleman, she said, inasmuch as "he had three kinds of wine on his table, and swore." In fact, the mild-mannered, kindly American householder, who wears old clothes, runs errands for his wife and daughters, likes rather than eschews "chores," never rings the bell, and hates to give trouble, and does not mind blacking his boots on a pinch, and washes down his meals with ice-water, and speaks to Bridget as though he and she had gone to school together, is a being whom she thoroughly understands, and is constantly disposed to regard as an impostor—a person living in a style he has no right to, and surrounded by luxuries he does not know how to enjoy. She will probably never understand the society in which she lives, and the only definite conclusion she appears to have reached about her business in it is, that she ought to get all she can out of everybody she has dealings with, and wear silks.

Guard Against Vulgar Language.

There is as much connection between the words and the thoughts as there is between the thoughts and actions. The latter is only the expression of the former, but they have a power to react upon the soul and leave the stain of corruption there. A young man who allows himself to use one vulgar or profane word, has not only shown that there is a foul spot upon his mind, but by the appearance of that word he extends that spot and inflames it till, by indulgence, it will pollute and ruin the soul, Be careful of your words as of your thoughts.

If you can control the tongue that no improper words are pronounced by it, you will soon be able to control the mind, and save it from corruption. You extinguish the fire by smothering it or by preventing bad thoughts bursting into language. Never utter a word anywhere which you are ashamed to speak in the presence of the most refined female or the most religious man. Try this practice a little while and you will soon have command of yourself.

AN individual of much practical experience says that green elder, deposited in and about mows of hay and grain, will prove an effectual preventative against the depredations of mice and rats. These animals are frequently very destructive in their ravages, and if a remedy so simple and easy of attainment be efficacious, it deserves to be known and remembered by all. We have long known that the stalks of the common mullen will drive rats from their haunts.

THE STOLEN APPLE.

I have been married fifteen years. Three beautiful daughters enlivened the domestic hearth, the youngest of whom was in her eighth year. A more happy and contented household was nowhere to be found. My wife was amiable, intelligent and contented. We were not wealthy; but Providence had preserved us from want; and we had learned that "contentment without wealth is better than wealth without contentment."

It was my custom, when returning home at night, to drop into one of the shops that are constantly open in the business streets of the metropolis, and purchase some trifling danties, such as fruit or confectionery, to present to mother and the children. I need not say how delighted the little ones were at this expression of paternal consideration. On one occasion I had purchased some remarkably fine apples. After the repast half a dozen were left untouched, and my thrifty companion forthwith removed them to the place of deposit, where it was her custom to preserve the remains of our knick-knacks. A day or two after, when I had seated myself at the table to dine, she said to me smiling, "So father has found the way to my safety box, has he?"

I was at a loss to understand the meaning, and desired her to explain.

"Have you not been in my drawer?"

"What drawer?"

"The upper drawer in my chamber bureau. Did you not take therefrom the largest of the pippins I had put away from the girls?"

"No, I did not."

"You did not!"

"Not I. I have not seen an apple since the evening I purchased them."

A slight cloud passed over the countenance of my wife. She was troubled. The loss of the apple was in itself nothing; but we had carefully instructed our children not to appropriate to their use any article whatever of family consumption, without permission; when the demand was at all reasonable, it had never been denied them. She was loath to suspect any one of the offence; we had a servant girl in the family, but as she was supposed to know nothing of the apples, my wife hesitated to charge it upon her. She at length broke the silence by saying: "We must examine the affair. I can hardly think one of the children would so act. If we find them guilty, we must reprove them. Will you please look into it?"

The girls were separately brought into my presence—the eldest one first.

"Eliza, did you take from your mother's drawer an apple?" "No, sir."

"Maria, did you take from your mother's drawer an apple?" "No, sir."

"Mary, did you take from your mother's drawer an apple?" "No, sir."

"It must have been taken by the servant; call her to me," said I addressing my wife.

"Nell, how came you to take from the drawer of your mistress, without permission, the largest of the apples she had placed there?" "Wot apples?"

"Did you take no apple from the drawer of your mistress?" "No, sa."

Now it was evident that falsehood existed somewhere. Could it be that one of my children had told me a lie? The thought harrassed me. I was not able to attend to business. I went to the store, but soon returned again. Meanwhile the servant girl had communicated to her mistress that she had seen our youngest go into the garret with a large apple the morning before. On examination, the core, and several pieces of the rind were found upon the floor. I again called Mary to me, and said to her affectionately:

"Mary, my daughter, did you not go into the garret yesterday?"

"Yes sir."

"Did you go there with an apple?"

"No sir."

"Did you notice anything on the floor?"

"No sir."

I was unwilling to believe my sweet child capable of telling me a falsehood, but appearances seemed against her. The fault lay between her and the servant, and while I was desirous to acquit the child, I did not wish to accuse unjustly the negro. I therefore took Mary into a room alone; I spoke to her of the enormity of lying—of the necessity of telling the truth—of the severe penalty I should be compelled to inflict upon her, if she did not confess the whole to me, and with tears in my eyes urged her to say that she had done it, if indeed she had. Gradually I became convinced of her guilt, and now I felt determined that she should confess it. My threatenings were not without effect. After weeping and protesting her innocence, and weeping and again protesting, my threatenings seemed to alarm her, and falling on her knees, she said: "Father, I did take the apple."

Never shall I forget that moment. My child confessed that she was a liar, in my presence.

Suppressing the emotion, I retired; and Mary, rising from her position, ran to her mother, and in a paroxysm of grief cried out. "Mother, I did not take the apple, but father has made me confess that I did."

Here was a new aspect of affairs. Lie multiplied upon lie! Could it be possible? My dear Mary, who had never been known to deceive us—so affectionate, so gentle, so truthful in all the past—could it be possible that she was a confirmed liar? Necessity was stronger than the tenderness of a father. I chastised her for the first time in my life—severely chastised her! It almost broke her heart—and I may add, it almost broke mine.

Yet Mary was innocent! After events proved that the negro was the thief. She had conjured up the story of the garret, knowing that Mary would not deny having been there; and to make the circumstances stronger against her, had strewn apple rinds on the floor. I never think of the event without tears. But it has taught me a useful lesson, and that is never to threaten a child into a lie, when may be it is telling the truth, The only lie I ever knew Mary to tell me I myself forced upon her by threatenings. It has also fixed in my mind the determination to employ no servant in my family whom I can possibly do without.—Hall's Journal of Health.

A DREAMING negro girl in Louisville, Ky., has surpassed Providence clairvoyancy, and, in fact, all other kinds. Her mistress lost a diamond ring coming home. The girl dreamed that if she went to a certain point, and dropped a plain gold ring, it would roll to the vicinity of the lost ring. The incredulous family proceeded to the spot, and strange to say the diamond ring was found within two inches of where the gold ring stopped.

private diseases, Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. Sundays 10 A.M. to 2 P.M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE STREET, (near Court House,) Pittsburgh, Pa.

PITTSBURGH IRON MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, August 13, 1869.

The iron Market presents but little that is really new or important. Metal is reported by some of the commisson men, as not being as firm as it was last week, the inquiry having fallen off somewhat, without however any change in prices.

A Louisville special to the Cincinnati Commercial, under date of Thursday, says: We hear of one of the largest sales of pig iron ever made, embracing seven thousand tons in one lot, and two thousand eight hundred tons in another. It was made by the Hanging Rock, Ohio, Furnaces, the first at forty-five dollars per ton, delivered on the cars at the station of the railroad, and the latter at forty-six dollars per ton, with the same conditions, equal to forty-eight dollars per ton, delivered at Portsmouth. This will require the full product of the furnace for three months.

ST. LOUIS, August 13.—Cattle are quiet and unchanged at $3@6,50. Hogs are firm with small receipts and a brisk demand, at $8,25@10.

Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, August 13.—In Woolen goods there is an improved demand but at low prices. The low rates of western freights have given a stimulus to trade, and when goods are offered at low rates they are taken freely. In certain grades of knit hosiery a concession has been yielded, notwithstanding the stoppage of all the mills at Cohoes, but other grades are scarce and bring full prices. The late suspension of Bowers, Beekman & Co. has involved a good many of the woolen mills in pecuniary losses, and four large failures are reported among them, besides a city wool house. These failures have cast a gloom over the woolen trade, but they may result in good in closing up some of the mills. In Cotton goods there is not much activity but prices are steady.

RIVER NEWS.

The Monongahela marks only indicated twenty-three inches last evening while it is claimed by parties who ought to know that there are at least twenty-eight inches in Rowley's chute. Weather clear and warm. Mercury at 5 P. M. 89 in shade.

—The Bellvernon left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Wednesday.

—Capt. A. H. Shaw has sold three fourths of the steamer Arkansas to Miss Lucinda Little of this city.

—The Nick Wall and Mary Davage arrived at St. Louis on Wednesday, and the Lorena left there the same day for Pittsburgh.

—The Ironsides, on her up trip last Saturday, sunk one of J. E. Remley's coal boats, at Parkersburg, with her large waves.

—The Petrolia from Parkersburg arrived and departed, and the R. C. Gray from Cincinnati arrived on Thursday night. She landed here with 65 tons, and came up through Rowley drawing 28 inches.

—H. A. Dean, formerly a well known steamboat clerk on the Ohio river, but for several years connected with the Northern Line Packet Company, died suddenly at St. Louis on Wednesday, of hemmorahage of the lungs.

—The new steamer Jefferson, while backing out from the Belmont Iron Mill, at Wheeling, on Tuesday evening, unfortunately, backed on to a log and broke 68 of her timbers. She proceded on her journey, however, and will probably go on the dock at Cincinnati.

—A St. Louis telegram under date of Wednesday says: The upper rivers are becoming difficult to navigate on account of low water. The Missouri has but three and a half feet in the channel, and the upper Mississippi is getting quite shallow above the rapids. To Cincinnati there is about ten feet of water, which is growing less daily, and the channel will soon be difficult to find.

—After the recent run between the steamers Rob Roy and Tom Jasper, some one in Quincy proposed through the Herald to wager $10,000 that the steamer Tom Jasper could beat any boat of the Keokuk Packet Line, on a trip from St. Louis to Keokuk; both boats to be equally freighted and to carry no passengers. We are authorized to say that responsible parties in Canton will take the bet, and place the Andy Johnson against the Tom Jasper "or any other man," on the terms mentioned. In the expressive terms of the prize ring, we therefore say to the sport of Quincy, "Put up or shut up".—Canton (Mo.) Press.

Safety Fire Jacket, Car Heater and MODERATOR.
For Smoke and Hot Air Flues, dispensing with the use of stoves and fires in or about the Passenger or Baggage Cars, with the attachment to graduate the heat to any temperature that may be desired without the possibility of firing the car or cars to which the Jacket may be attached. Having obtained of the United States Letters Patent for a Safety Jacket, which is warranted to resist the most intense heat that may be applied to it in the position and purpose for which it is intended.
It is a sure protection from accidents by fire, originating from defective flues or where iron pipes are used as conductors for smoke or heat. It is applicable to all piping that may become overheated, and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction where wood or other combustible material may be placed in close proximity thereto. I am now ready to apply my invention to stores, dwellings, factories, ships, steamboats, railroad cars, &c. Wherever pipes as conductors are made dangerous by being overheated and security desired, I will send on application right to manufacture or use the above invention. Also Territorial rights to such as may wish to engage in selling privileges either by State or county.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 134¼@134⅜.

THE FENIANS continue to give signs that a raid in the near future is contemplated on Canada.

THE railroad freight war has been renewed at New York, but Pittsburghers hear of it only through the newspapers.

A LETTER from Nashville reports a shower of snakes in East Tennessee. The election returns satisfy us that the shower was general in all parts of the State.

THE XVth section of the Registry Law abolished all spring elections for city, ward, borough and township and election officers, requiring the future election of these officers in October of each year. Consequently all such officers, as would be chosen next spring were not this act in force, must be elected on the second Tuesday of October next. The people should bear this necessity in mind.

IT IS highly probable that no effort will be made to secure the vote on the Park question, inasmuch as the gentlemen having charge of the matter have, through delay for which they are not responsible, lost the option secured for the purchase of an all important piece of ground taken into their proposed scheme for supplying the city with ground necessary for a public breathing spot, free of cost. We are sorry that the matter is likely to fall to the ground, or be indefinitely postponed. Ten years hence the people will look back with regret to the present failure to secure for the city that which it so badly needs.

THE consolidation of the Hudson and New York Central Railways will be accomplished at an early day. And the final consolidation of the entire line, from New York by Buffalo to Chicago, is likely to follow in due time. The successful tactics of the Central route through Pennsylvania, leave no other alternative to the proprietors of the competing line on the North. While the Vanderbilt roads are thus perfecting their plans to overtake the Central line at Chicago, the latter is already moving to the control of connections still further westward, the Rock Island road being regarded as the next objective point, with the indications in favor of its speedy absorption.

IN THEIR letters to the Stokes Republicans of Tennessee, Messrs. BOUTWELL and CRESWELL were but a very few days in advance of equally significant and satisfactory expressions from Gen. GRANT. It is quite clear that those letters were written in faithful accord with the President's opinions, as then known to the members of his Cabinet. These opinions have since been explicitly declared, in his conference with Mr. Tarbell, of Mississippi, of which we had a full report a day or two since, and in his decided disapproval of the Conservative movement in that State. It would require a very large measure of "Conservative" charity, to make any intelligent man believe now, that the President ever disapproved of the letters written by his Secretaries to friends of Stokes, about which three or four Republican journals have made such a pother. They know in Tennessee by this time, as well as in Mississippi and Texas, where the President stands, and that he is openly on the side of those who are the only consistent supporters of Republican doctrine.

AN official statement of the receipts and expenditures during the first quarter year of the present Federal Administration, shows an excess of the former of thirty-nine and a half millions of dollars. The receipts from all regular sources exceeded all the regular expenditures, exclusive of the public debt, by upwards of forty three millions. The surplus of receipts is at the rate of one hundred and sixty millions of dollars for the year. It will be remembered in this connection, that Mr. Horatio Seymour last year predicted that the Treasury, under Republican rule, would show on the 1st of July, 1869, a deficiency of $150,000,000. It is now reported from Deerfield that the late Democratic candidate has sent for Mr. DELMAR to explain this failure of his prediction.

THE PHILADELPHIA DEMOCRACY have adopted new "rules" for the regulation of their primary meetings and nominating Conventions. The new code is promulgated by a Convention of which Mr. Richard Vaux was chairman, and which has been in session for a week or two for the arrangement of these delicate questions. It was when assuming his duties as the presiding officer of this meeting that the mild-spoken Vaux demanded the fullest Democratic recognition of the once favorite dogma of the party—that "white men shall rule America;" he even expressed his sense of the importance of the crisis, in his prediction that the Democracy would soon be invited to take up their muskets to secure the predominance of this excellent principle. We are humiliated in the necessity of announcing that his Convention failed to see the momentous issue in any such light; quite the reverse, for an almost unanimous vote struck out the word "white," from its prefix to the designation of the Democracy in the new code of rules.

These "rules" embody one provision which is worthy of a more general approbation: the principle of minority representation is recognized and secures a practical illustration. It is required that, in precints where three delegates are to be chosen, each ballot shall be limited to two names, whence it follows that the third name chosen will be that of the most popular minority candidates, and the minority may thus control one third of the whole body of delegates. The workings of this novel regulation are likely to be favorable to partizan harmony, and deserve consideration among all political organizations.

A careful perusal of these Democratic rules fails to reveal to us any prohibition of the traditional practices of the party; such as repeating, colonizing, box-stuffing, voting on forged naturalization-papers and coffee-pot certificates, and so on. Perhaps Mr. Vaux and his friends were of opinion that these little dodges have been effectually precluded by the the registry-law. Let us hope so! In the meantime, the Democratic silence on those points is to be explained in the fact that the opposition are more interested for a full vote than for a pure suffrage.

HOUSEHOLD MARKETING.

A very sensible citizen, in a brief note which we printed yesterday, indicated that which is practically the true remedy for the extortions which the people of these cities daily suffer, at the hands of middle-men and huckstering dealers in fruits and vegetables. Laws and ordinances are well enough, for the restraint of such grossly injurious practices as forestalling and regrating, but no legislation of any sort can supply the positive and immediate public benefits which always spring from a healthy and enterprising competition among the dealers in these small but indispensible articles of consumption. What our city markets need, is more of this wide-awake enterprise, which should address itself to the business of supplying our populations with vegetables and fruits—especially where these are to be brought from a distance, as in the first days of a season—with a careful reference to the always beneficial rule of "large sales and small profits." Such a business, controlled by a shrewd judgment and supported by a reasonable capital, could soon be made a most remunerative speciality by the parties who undertake it. See what has been accomplished by one well known firm in Baltimore, in the supply of the West with oysters. We need not be very old to remember when this article of food was really made a luxury, by reason of its high price and the irregular supply. There was then a show of competition, but no one dealer had the enterprise or the grasp of detail to embark in it as a specialty, on the basis of a fixed but regular profit upon an extended and systematic trade. A public need was felt; in due time it was supplied and one business-firm after another embarked in it. The result is that the oyster trade of Baltimore with the interior has assumed a permanence, a magnitude and a regularity, which ensures a constant supply of this delicious food, in its season, at a price within the reach of all. It is eminently a traffic in which large sales and small profits have profited both the dealer and the public.

Our citizens need the application of the same principles to the business of dealing in their supplies of summer fruits and vegetables. Our own vine-growers and horticulturists have already found out how to supply the great Eastern cities with strawberries, grapes, &c. Have we no dealers who know as well how to import? Why must we pay from $2,50 to $4,00 for a basket of peaches, when the markets of those cities are glutted with them at from fifty cents to one dollar? Why must we pay twenty cents per quart for berries which can be purchased at no greater price per gallon within two hours of railway distance from the city? There can be no good reason for this, except that the situation is waiting for the right men, with capital, pluck and judgment, to inaugurate the right system with as much advantage to the public as to themselves. As things now are, our domestic traffic can exhibit no such palpable instance of the failure of the supply to satisfy the demand as in this department of vegetables and fruits. Who will see what the public wants, and his own splendid opportunity for profit, and organize a systematic supply at reasonable prices?

When the progress of the season affords to our markets more abundant supplies of such vegetables and fruits as can be profitably raised in our own vicinity, our people no longer find reason to complain either on the score of quality or price, although the huckster-class always cling to their monopolizing policy to the last practicable moment. This is an evil which will cure itself in time—when it becomes widely enough understood among the near-by gardeners and farmers, that our market-places are open to all competition, and that their grounds can not be more profitably employed than in the culture of these smaller articles for popular consumption. But so long as the supply is confined, as it must be, in the opening of the season, to importations by rail from a distance, it is undeniably the fact that this supply is put effectively out of the reach of the poorer customers, by the faults of the existing system, or lack of system. The rich house-holder is able to buy, by the quantity, from the wholesale dealer at a price which his purse does not find to be unreasonable, while his poorer neighbor must either go without, or submit to the exactions of the smaller intermediate dealers at enormously multiplied profits.

The markets of these cities should be freely supplied with all the products of a region as far south as the North Carolina or Tennessee line, and those dealers who shall organize a practical business, bringing these supplies directly within the popular reach, without the intervention of so many middle-men, will not fail to find their own account in it.

THE TENNESSEE DEMOCRACY AND THE SUFFRAGE.

This Memphis Post cautions the colored voters of Tennessee against any feeling of uneasiness concerning their political rights under the new Conservative regime. It assures them that "there is not the slightest occasion for alarm;" that the immense majority at the recent election "was given in support of the Chicago platform and distinctively for universal suffrage;" that every respectable journal in Tennessee "is pledged to this doctrine, and cannot violate the pledge."

We hope that the Post is not mistaken. But there are journals in that State, perhaps not "respectable," which are already demanding not only the immediate call of a Convention, but that it shall revise the existing Constitution in every important particular. The spirit which such journals evince may, or may not, be that which animates the white masses of the State, but all experience has proved that when any question of a retrograde tendency, like that of colored disfranchisement, is presented to the masses of the unenlightened white population, whose votes have just now swollen the majorities as well for a Democratic Legislature as for Governor SENTER, the result is quite sure to be for the worse. But if the leading journals, quoted by the Post as being committed to colored suffrage, shall really succeed in controlling the proscriptive inclinations of the more reckless partisans, we shall rejoice heartily with our Memphis cotemporary. So long as such journals as the Memphis Appeal show their teeth against universal suffrage, we must take the contrary assurances with some grains of allowance.

The Post is quite right in its pleasing anticipations, if reliance is to be put upon the influence of one of its Democratic neighbor, the Avalanche, which says:

Negro suffrage is a fixed, inevitable fact. Reconstruction, according to the Congressional demands, is unavoidable. The Southern people have accepted the situation. Virginia was the first to ignore old party issues and nomenclatures. Tennessee followed, and it will be seen that Mississippi, our sister State, has adopted the same wise policy. But "oh," says some old party hack, "are you going to sink the hallowed name of Democracy, and abandon a party that has stood by the constitution so long?" We say yes, if the public good requires it, sink the name and the party so deep, that the hand of resurrection will never reach it. We know that Democrats ardently desire to preserve the Constitution and our institutions as they received them from their fathers. But they are powerless for good. The policy they have opposed has triumphed, and let us now meet the new, living, vital issues that concern the South, not as partisans, but as patriots, anxious to strike hands with anybody that can do the greatest good to a people who are so much in need of good deeds. When a party confessedly becomes a failure so far as the accomplishment of result, then its organization is a cheat and a delusion, and profiting by the lessons which history teaches, we should abandon it. The Democratic party is now nothing but the shell from which the oyster was taken.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

Notwithstanding much interest has been awakened in the churches generally, relative to Sunday-schools, there is still very much indeed necessary to make them all they should be, as an efficient auxilliary to the churches. The rich provision for singing, and requisites of various forms for the routines services are quite full and constantly multiplying, are encouraging features. Much of this, however, is the work of individuals generally, instead of congregations, which in order to continue success, is too heavy a tax in time and money on individuals, without estimating the labor. It is gratifying to know that we have such generous people in our congregations; but what we need is provision by congregations for all the wants of their respective schools, on the same scale as music or any other auxiliary is supplied to aid in worship. Members of the church should bear in mind that secular schools are furnished with every facility to promote education, and Sunday schools should be as liberally provided with every help necessary to advance that cause. The apartments should also be attractive to the eye, as well lighted and well ventilated, and comfortable in every respect. It should be borne in mind too, that the Sunday school is one of the main sources of supply of church communicants, and it should be in the fullest sense a "nursery" of the church. The outlay of money for this department will produce grand results in many ways. It is said that fourteen churches in Boston pay less for Sunday school purposes than the amount paid by one of them for music. A western church, says an exchange, pays the pastor eight thousand dollars per annum and two thousand for music, and not a penny for the Sunday school. Moody, the lay preacher in Chicago, thinks it is not surprising that the devil gets so many of the children. We like to see the pastor well paid, as he should always be, and to see liberal provision for music, but we think there should be special care that the Sunday school is furnished with all it needs to make it efficient and prosperous.

Rev. Dr. Abel Stevens, the distinguished historian of Methodism, preached Sunday morning last in the Sands street M. E. church, Brooklyn. The object of the sermon was to show that the New Testament ideal of a priesthood is not a peculiar class of men set apart for the ministry, but that the whole body of laymen as well as clergymen are included in the biblical phrase "a royal priesthood." His argument was virtually a plea for lay representation in the Methodist Episcopal Church. Dr. Joseph Haven, of the Congregational Theological Seminary, Horace Greeley, Theodore Tilton and others were among the visiting auditors on that occasion.

The Independent shows that the assumption of the Evangelist that New Jersey and Pennsylvania are Presbyterian "pre-empted ground," is not in accordance with the facts in the case. It claims that all the Old School Presbyterian churches of New Jersey were originally Congregational in name and polity, and remained so for many years. Some of these churches did not become Presbyterian till within the present century.

At the recent session of the Moravian Synod, in Germany, representing the churches in Europe and in this country, four Bishops were elected and confirmed by lot, and one who had been elected was not confirmed by lot.

Dean Stanley, in his sermon in Westminster Abbey, on the Fourth of July, spoke against the disposition to keep up old animosities with America. "Finally," he cried, "woe to those who by act or word strive to put asunder those whom, by blood, speech, race, and the grace of His Gospel, God hath joined together."

The Methodist Protestant knows of a case where sponge cake and wine has been used instead of bread and wine at the Communion Table.

A correspondent of the New York Evening Post suggests to the Young Men's Christian Association of that city, to charter a steamboat and give relief to the overworked poor and give them a ride on Sunday. Suggestions of this kind illustrate a species of false philanthropy that is damaging to Christianity.

The Baptists in Philadelphia are about organizing such elements in their churches as can be made efficient in lay preaching. This is a step in the right direction, and worthy of imitation by all bodies who have not found work for laymen.

According to the latest official returns of the vote on Lay Delegation in the Methodist Episcopal Church, by districts, the total vote is nearly one hundred and twenty five thousand, not quite one-third of which is against the measure, being more than two out of three votes in favor of the reform. These returns are from one hundred and sixty-nine districts. The whole Church embraces three hundred and eighty-nine districts.

A correspondent of the Advance, in an article on Catholocism in America, represents that an American saw, two years ago in Rome, a better map of the country west of the Mississippi than ever he saw at home—upon which the line of the Pacific Railway was traced and every point particularly marked where the nucleus of a city was likely to gather. He adds in such spots land is being obtained by Catholics for future use.

This week's issue of the American Churchman completes the first year under its present management. At the commencement of the year we called attention to the decided improvements in the paper, and now, after the lapse of a year, we think the promises of the publishers have been faithfully performed. We hope its conductors may be favored with an increased subscription list, and that it may grow better every issue hereafter.

A writer in the Baptist Tidings, a converted Catholic, says five Baptist churches have been organized from converted Catholics by the labors of Mr. Draroches since he came to Detroit, twelve years ago—two in Michigan, two in Ohio, and one in Canada.

The last United Presbyterian General Assembly appointed the third Thursday of August, this year, as a day of special prayer in all the congregations for light to guide in deciding the grave questions now engaging the attention of the Church. The United Presbyterian of this city reminds its readers of this duty, and urges that the occasion be faithfully observed. It thinks that they are not quite ready for union with other Presbyterian bodies and that they should seek for direction and strength to do the work committed to them as a branch of the Church.

The Trustees of Tarentum Campground, with a view to prevent Sabbath desecration as far as they have power, have specially requested Mr. B. Pitcairn, the gentlemanly Superintendent of the Western Railroad Company, not to run any passenger trains on Sunday, which he has kindly consented to do. By order of the Trustees, the grounds will be closed to all public vehicles on that day. Persons desirous of attending the camp meeting will govern themselves accordingly.

Red River of the North.

Mr. C. C. Coffin writes in very enthusiastic terms to the Boston Journal, from the Red River of the North, five hundred miles northeast of Chicago:

One of the most wonderful features of this region is its climate. Here we are in latitude 46—several degrees further north than Boston, but the summers are longer than in Massachusests, and the winters, though colder, are less severe than in that State. The air is dry, the days calm, and the hundreds of men that I meet, who have come here from Maine and New Hampshire, selecting this as their future home, say that this climate is far preferable to that of New England.

Yesterday I saw a Scotchman, who lives five hundred miles north of this point in a straight line, on the shore of Lake Winnipeg. The winter there, he says, is not so severe as at Chicago. Scientific men have speculated on this phenomena, but we have seen no satisfactury explanation. Doubtless it is due to a combination of causes—the influence of the great lakes on one side and the Rocky Mountains on the other—to the Missouri and Mississippi and Red rivers, to the currents of air sweeping up the Missouri valley from the dry plains of Nebraska. Be the cause what it may, the fact remains that here—reaching from Chicago northwest over a territory embracing Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dacotah, Northern Montana and a vast region in the British Possessions—lie the wheat lands of North America.

No other country has such a domain. The plains of Bavaria and Hungary, upon which Central Europe relies for its grain, united, would not exceed in area a single county in Minnesota. The fine lands of Prussia have a thin soil, while the wheat fields of France have been cultivated for centuries, and are only kept in heart by constant application of fertilizers, but here the soil is in its virgin state, yielding such returns as are not obtained in any other land, unless it be in the San Joaquin and Santa Clara valleys of California.

The most fertile acre of the Ganges Valley in India will not yield a greater return than these of the Northwest. The Nile and the Yangtze—the fertility renewed by each annual flood—may vie with the uplands of Minnesota, but there are sections along this Red river of the North—along the Cheyenne and Mouse rivers of Dacotah, which are not surpassed by the richest in the heart of China or on the Delta of the Nile.

All of this territory lies north and east of the Missouri, and this side of the Rocky Mountains. We have spoken of it as a wheat field, and have said nothing of its other resources, but here are the supplies of timber from which the people of more southern sections are to receive their future building materials. Looking out from my tent toward the northeast I can see, on the horizon, the dim blue outline of the timbered region around the streams forming the head waters of the Mississippi. If we travel west we shall find exhaustless supplies of coal. Between the Red river of the North and the Rocky Mountains, lies the great coal field of this granary of the Continent. On the streams that find their way into Lake Superior, and on the Mississippi, are sites for manufactories, where, in coming years, the hum of machinery, the clatter of the shuttle, and buzzing of mill wheels, will break the stillness of the primeval solitude.

Is Consumption Contagious?

Successive observations and experiments with reference to consumption, affirm the belief that it is contagious. Prof. Chauvenau, of the Lyons Veterinary School, has made some important investigations on the subject. Tubercle, it will be remembered, is a peculiar formation, which, being deposited in the substance of the lungs, like millet seed, gradually enlarges, by accretion to its like, into masses of various sizes. While this process is going on, the symptoms of pulmonary consumption, with its cough, hectic fever, &c., show themselves. How and under what conditions of the animal economy is tubercle formed, has been a question not yet satisfactorily solved. As a general thing we can say, that whatever tends to weaken the body by interfering with healthy digestion and the making of good blood, predisposes to the formation of tubercle. It is only of late times that this substance has been admitted to be propagated on occasions by contagion and inoculation. For a long time, however, the people of the south of Europe entertained the belief that consumption is contagious, and that the infection might extend to the clothes and bedding of the patient, and hence after his death these articles were ordered to be burned.—Phila. Ledger.

NOTWITHSTANDING the heat, says the Pall Mall Gazette, the greatest activity is shown in pushing forward the structure erecting in St. Peter's for the Œcumenical Council. The architect, Signor Vespignani, is daily in attendance and he is kept at high pressure by the Pope. A circular has been addressed to the Bishops, enjoining them to choose coadjurors to discharge their duties during their presence at the Council. It was to give facilities for such arrangements that the Pope nominated so many Bishops in pratibus in the last Consistory. The Council will suppress several religious orders and useless congregations and many communities of women. It will also forbid religieux to accept the functions of parish priests requiring these last to be secular scholars. Cardinal Mattei Dean of the Sacred College, is dangerously ill. He lately made his will, bequeating his immense fortune to his near relations. He leaves a million of francs in gold, and half a million in notes.

CHEAP LIVING IN MINNESOTA.—A private letter from St. Paul, Minnesota, dated July 11th, gives the following account of the cost of living: "Beef is not very good here, but there is an abundance of other kinds of meats to make up for the deficiency. Game is cheap; venison six cents a pound in the season, and bear's meat ditto. I don't suppose you will believe me when I tell you I bought peas on Saturday last for ten cents a peck, and young potatoes twenty cents per peck; strawberries ten and twelve cents a quart, and big ones at that. I find that I can save more at the end of a week than I could on a salary of $25 in New York. Board is high—$7 to $10 a week, according to room—but a single young man could get board in a private family for about $5 a week."

THE Philadelphia Press says of the late internal revenue decision relative to base ball clubs: Base ballers will scarcely learn with pleasure that their clubs are organizations for the purpose of making money by regular exhibitions, and as such required to pay an annual license of $10, besides a tax upon receipts. Yet this seems to be so. We shall now hear of suspensions infinite. The impecunious clubs will disintegrate, but the stronger ones will become stronger. The sport of play will become a business more than ever. People always dance the heartier when the fiddler has to be paid. The club has at last found its status. It is in the eyes of the law as fully recognized as a circus, a race course, or a theatre.

Fire in Providence, R. I.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., August 13.—A fire this afternoon destroyed the two story wooden building on Westminster street, near Eddy street, occupied by stores, offices and shops. Loss from $15,000 to $20,000, and is pretty well covered by insurance. This is the first fire of importance which has occurred in this city for seven months.

—A Denver dispatch says: Gov. Mitchell, of New Mexico, has issued a proclamation declaring all Navajoe and Gela Apache Indians outlaws, whenever found outside of the limits of their reservations, and authorizing the citizens of the Territory to kill every such depredator.

If early resort is had to it.

DR. KEYSER'S BOWEL CURE is one of the most valuable remedies ever discovered for all diseases incident to this season of the year. Hundreds of sufferers could be relieved in less than a day by a speedy resort to this most valuable medicine, particularly valuable, when the system is apt to become disordered by the two free use of unripe and crude vegetables.

Price 50 Cents. Sold at DR. KEYSER'S GREAT MEDICINE STORE, 167 Liberty St., and by all druggists.

A LIFE-SAVING ARRANGEMENT.

A radical change has been introduced in the practice of medicine. Physicians have ceased to torture and prostrate their patients. Instead of pulling down, they build up; instead of assaulting nature, they assist her. Cupping, leeching, blistering, venesection, calomel, antimony, stupifying narcotics, and rasping purgatives, once the favorite resources of the faculty, are now rarely resorted to even by the most dogmatic members of the profession. The old creed was that disease was something which must be expelled by violent artificial means, irrespective of the wear and tear of the vital organization in the process. The new creed recognizes the improvement of the general health as essential to the cure of all local ailments. Hence it is that HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, the most potent vegetable tonic that pharmacy has ever brought to the assistance of nature in her struggles with disease, has been cordially approved by practitioners of the modern school. It is pleasant to reflect that reason and philosophy have at last been victorious over the errors of the past, and that thousands and tens of thousands of human beings are alive and well to-day, who would indubitably be mouldering in their graves had they been subjected to the pains and penalties which were deemed orthodox and indispensable thirty or forty years ago.

If preventive medication was scarcely thought of then: but now it is considered of paramount importance, and the celebrity of the STANDARD INVIGORANT, ALTERATIVE AND RESTORATIVE of the age, (a title which HOSTETTER'S BITTERS have fairly earned by their long career of success), is mainly due to its efficiency as a PROTECTIVE PREVENTIVE.

A course of the BITTERS is urgently recommended at this season of the year, as a safe and certain antidote to the malaria which produces intermittent and remittent fevers, diarrhea, dysentery and other maladies.

PACIFIC RAILWAY GOLD LOAN.
Messrs. DABNEY, MORGAN & CO., 53 Exchange Place, and M. K. JESUP & CO., 12 Pine Street, N. Y., offer for sale the Bonds of the Kansas Pacific Railway. These Bonds pay seven per cent. in Gold; have thirty years to run; are Free from Government Taxation; are secured by a Land Grant of Three Million Acres of the Finest Lands in Kansas and Colorado. In addition to this special grant the Company also owns Three Millions of Acres in Kansas, which are being rapidly sold to develop the country and improve the road. They are a first mortgage upon the extension of the road from Sheridan, Kansas to Denver, Colorado. The road in operation NOW EARNS MORE THAN ENOUGH NET INCOME TO PAY THE INTEREST ON THE NEW LOAN. There is no better security in the market—this being in some respects better than Government Securities. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD. Price 96, and accrued Interest, in Currency. Pamphlets, Maps and Circulars furnished on application.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, August 13, 1869.

The gold market was unsettled to-day: opened at 134⅜, advancing 134¾, and after selling down to 134⅛, closed at 134⅜. There is a firmer feeling in the Exchange market and it seems that the unfavorable crop reports were exaggerated by speculators for a rise in grain and flour and by bears in the gold room.

Government bonds seem dull and heavy, and to all appearance will go lower as soon as the government purchases are completed. At the decline, however, fewer bonds are offered, holders being in hopes that the next week's purchases will rally the market again, when a general rise is expected among all securities.

Stocks are heavy and lower for all shares except New York Central. Northwest shares are sustained, but the upward movement has been checked. Cleveland and Pittsburgh has declined about 3 per cent, also Reading. Fort Wayne is dull, caused by the free sale of parties who bought on confidential information that the stock would go to 175. Those who bought at 158 and better find that carrying high priced stock is unprofitable, and now are trying to get rid of a good paying investment.

Money quite easy.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, August 13, 1869.

The war between the trunk lines of railroad to the west is now being waged with greater intensity than ever, and freights to Chicago have been reduced to 18c per cwt. Merchants are taking advantage of this low rate, and the different railroad depots are crowded with merchandise awaiting transportation. The money market is unchanged; the demand on call at 6 to 7 per cent. Sterling dull and unchanged. Gold dull, opening at 134⅜, advanced to 134½, and closed at 134¼@134⅜. Loans were made at one per cent. to flat. The clearances were $107,000,000.

Governments are dull and lower, closing steady. Coupons of '81, 122¾@123; do. '62, 123¾@124; do. '64, 122¼@122½; do. '65, 122⅜@122½; do. new, 120¾@120⅞; do. '67, 121⅛@121¼; do. 68, 120½@120¾; 10-40's, 114⅛@114¼; Pacifics, 109¾@110.

State bonds heavy; Missouris 86¾; old Tennessees 61½; new do. 51; old Virginias 62; old North Carolinas 56; new do. 48½.

Stocks strong during the morning, but in the afternoon the great reduction in freights to the west had a depressing influence on the market and lower prices made. The greatest fall was in New York Central, which declined from 213½ to 210, followed by a fall in Hudson from 190 to 187; Michigan Southern, from its connection with the above roads, from 107 to 105¼. Common shares of Northwestern and St. Paul fell 1 per cent., while Rock Island was also down 1 per cent. The balance of the market did not decline in the same proportion. At 4:45 P. M. the market rallied from the lowest, especially on New York Central. The miscellaneous and express stocks were dull and neglected in general. The market at the close was dull and unsettled.

Five-Thirty Prices: Canton, 58¼; Cumberland, 35½; Western Union Telegraph, 38¾; Quicksilver, 15¾; Mariposa, 7; do. preferred, 16; Pacific Mail, 83¼; Adams Express, 58⅞; Wells 20; American, 39; United States, 68; Merchants Union, 10; N. PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, August, 13 1869.

The advance in breadstuffs in New York, the other day, is said to have been the result of a "bear" attack on the gold market, based upon private dispatches from England, reporting bad weather and injury to the growing crops, there, and in several parts of Europe, and giving higher quotations in the English grain market than those furnished by the press telegrams. This caused quite an excitement on the Produce Exchange, where, in the expectation of a large demand for American grain, buyers appeared in force, and bought up at sharply advanced prices all the stuff offering within shippers' limits. Sales of 250,000 bushels of wheat 26,000 barrels of flour at an advance of 8 to 10 cents a bushel on the wheat, and 25 cents per barrel on the flour, are reported. This movement of produce to Europe, creating a large volume of exchange, will operate to stop shipments of specie; hence its influence upon the gold market.

APPLES—Very dull and the supply is large; we now quote at $2,50@3,50 per bbl, as to quality.

BERRIES—Sales Blackberries at $1,00@1,25 per bucket.

BUTTER—Is still quoted at 20@25, though it is dull with a supply ahead considerably of the demand.

BEANS—Sales at $1,75@2.

BROOMS—Quoted as follows: No. 5 $6,50; No. 4 $6; No. 3 $5, No. 2, plain, $4,50, and market firm.

CHEESE—Although firmer, is quiet and unchanged.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, August 13, 1869.

The market although moderately active, was hardly as firm as it was yesterday, and while the feeling was hardly so strong and August delivery is a shade lower, yet there are many who entertain strong hopes that there will be a still further improvement in prices. The feeling towards evening was thought to be rather better than it was early in the day, and it is possible that sales may have been made before the close at slightly improved prices, at least it looked that way at 4 P. M. The report of the Titusville Herald in regard to the production appears to give pretty general satisfaction here, at least we heard of but few complaints, while thus far it appears to have had no perceptible influence on the market, one way or the other.

CRUDE.

The crude market, compared with yesterday, has undergone no important change. Sale 2,000 bbls for September, seller, at 15; 1,000 August, seller, at 15; and 5,000, seller all year, on broad guage cars at Oil City, at $5,75. There was a reported offer to sell 20,000 bbls, buyer all year, at 16½; and we heard of a sale having been made at 16¼.

REFINED.

1,000 bbls August, at 32¼; also sales in lots of 2,000 at 32¼.500 each, Sept. to Dec. at 33; 1,000 October to December at 33, 1.000 same months, at 33; and 1,000 each, November and December, at 32¾. The first sale of August to-day was at 32¼; afterwards it dropped to 32¼, while late in the afternoon it was thought that 32¼ would again be realized before the close.

Subterranean Railways.

The Connecticut Courant has a very interesting European correspondent, who gives the readers of that paper the following description of railroad travel under the crowded thoroughfares of London:

"Go with me—it won't cost you anything—to one of the stations. They are above ground. We mention our destination and purchase a ticket, paying about a penny a mile. We descend two or three flights of stairs, as the case may be, and find ourselves in a roomy underground station, well lighted with gas. There are several racks, sometimes two or three sets of racks, for more than one roadway has this for a station. A train, with a low engine, whizzes in and out of the dark tunnel, drawing a long train of carriages, full of people. There is a hasty getting in and out, calling of the guard, banging of doors, and the train is off into the darkness again. It is not our train, but one going the other way. We have not long to wait, trains every three minutes. Here it comes, gliding smoothly in. We take our seats in a comfortable car, lighted with gas, in which people sit reading newspapers; the guard calls the station, the door bangs and we are off. What a roar! Little chance for talking. There is no complaint about the air. It seems not specially damp, or at all bad, and with only the very slightest smell of coal smoke, so slight that it is not worth mentioning. On we rush for three minutes, and then glide into another lighted station, Our ticket says, 'Change at Baker street.' We get off. Where are we? Where shall we go? The guard points up the stairway; he has only time for a gesture. A train is coming in; a train is going out; people are streaming in and out. We ascend a stairway, gaslighted, go along a winding passage, ascend more, descend. turn, go down, and here is another station, and people waiting for the train. Where the polar star is, or the sun, or which way we shall go to get out of London, we have no idea. But the guard tells us, and we are off again. There in the mouth of the tunnel where we last started, the track of another road crosses ours on the same level. As we run we are sometimes over another road, sometimes under one; there is one running parallel with us for a little distance, at the same level, and another also parallel but below our level. We pass one, two, three stations and here is the end of our journey and of the road. We go up flights of stairs and come out into the sunshine, finding that it is not such a bad day after all now we have got out of the city."

Political Items.

The Somerset Hearld and Whig says: "Pershing is a third or fourth rate country lawyer, enjoying a plodding business as scrivener and general county counsel. He has never, unassisted, tried a dozen cases in that many years of practice, and we doubt much if his voice has ever been heard at the bar of the court on whose bench he aspires to sit. His public career has been confined to a few years' service in the lower House of our State Legislature, where he made a political reputation so extensive that one half of his party journals in the State do not even know how to spell his name."

The Reading Times says that Mr. Packer amassed a colossal fortune by grinding the faces of the poor. Years ago he made heavy contracts for boating coal to New York and got a kind of monopoly of the business. He carried his oppression of boatmen so far that they rebelled against him, and resorted to a strike. He went to South Easton, where the boatmen had congregated, to compel them to continue in his service, but so violent was the feeling against him that he was seized by the men, thrown into the Lehigh, and would have been drowned but for a timely rescue. So exasperated were the men against Packer, that they drove the man who had saved his life from the ground with stones.

Don Piatt says: "Let me tell you in a sentence what I think of the Democratic party. It is the organized ignorance of the land, animated by low prejudices and vicious passions; and while I would shrink from asserting that all Democrats are rascals, I will say, without fear of successful contradiction, that all rascals are Democrats. In analyzing the rings I found operating in Washington last winter, I discovered that two-thirds of their members belonged to that old organization that claimed to have been born under Jefferson, fought under Jackson and suffered death under the venerable Buchanan. Whether it will raise again at any subsequeut period is for the people to say."

Packer and His Taxes.

Carbon county and the borough of Mauch Chunk, during the recent war, contracted a large debt for bounty to those who went into the army. Honorably to meet this debt it became necessary to raise money by taxation. The assessor assessed Asa Packer with one million of dollars of railroad stock, when in fact he owned about four millions. Packer, like other residents of Mauch Chunk, paid his taxes the first year, but to evade future payment gave out that he had changed his residence to the city of Philadelphia. The alleged change not being apparent to any one but himself, (he and his family still continuing to occupy the spacious mansion in Mauch Chunk as before), the proper authorities again assessed upon him the usual taxes as on all other residents of the borough. He refused payment, again protesting that his residence was at the Merchants' Hotel, Philadelphia, and the result was the amount had to be recovered from him by suit at law, and ever since then the authorities of Mauch Chunk, with most wonderful kindness and magnanimity, have permitted the poor man to repudiate the payment of his share of the patriotic bounty taxes, and required the rich men of the town to pay their own share and Mr. Packer's also; and all this on the pitiful plea that he had changed his residence. The fact is, he has opened a coal and railroad office in Philadelphia, but there stands his elegant family residence, in Mauch Chunk, occupied by himself and family year after year, as it has always been. Is not this a miserable subterfuge, unworthy any honest man? and much more a man who aspires to the high and honorable places in the country? Let him set an example of which honorable men will not be ashamed; let him pay his share of the taxes, due the soldier, his widow, and his orphan, before he asks their votes or their influence to elevate him over them as their ruler.

CLIPPINGS.

THE Grand Army of the Republic is in a very prosperous condition in Pennsylvania, and its numbers are rapidly increasing. Over ten thousand dollars is now in the hands of the head quartermaster, and about five thousand dollars has been expended in charity.

THE annual council of the Indiana Christian Union meets at Filmore, Putnam county, on the last Thursday in September. The brethren at Filmore are making preparations to accommodate all who may come. This organization extends to Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and, to some extent, in Missouri, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

AT Zanesville, last Saturday afternoon, just before the beginning of the eclipse, David Launder took up a piece of smoked glass for the purpose of viewing the sun, when he was attacked with coup de soleil, and fell prostrate to the ground. On recovering he stated that the sensation felt by him was as if a sharp pointed instrument had been driven through the ball of the eye, producing a sharp, penetrating pain.

THE Cleveland Herald says that on Saturday evening, at about half past seven o'clock, an unusually large and brilliant meteor was observed, omitting, apparently, sparks of fire from its body, and leaving a long train behind, which dazzled the eye with its splendor. When nearly over Woodland Cemetery it vanished, and immediately afterward a rushing sound was heard, and a fiery aerolite was seen to fall to the ground. Directly after; the stone was picked up in the garden of Mr. R. S. Evans, on Cemetery street, by Mr. E. himself, who stated that it was so hot that he could scarcely handle it. The color of the stone is of a brownish cast, and it is nearly round and of a remarkable hardness.

LOPEZ, the Paraguayan Dictator, eats enormously, is a great smoker, and is an excellent judge of claret, of which he keeps a very fine quality for his own use; but, Mr. Thompson reports, serves his guests, and even Mrs. Lynch, with a poorer quality. He speaks French, but prefers Guarani, the language of the Paraguayan Indians; spends a good deal of time in checker playing; places no value on human life; has caused nearly a thousand persons to be tortured to death; is insolent to all under his command, and is so arrant a coward that in the field he deprived his guard of their splendid peace uniform, discarded his own favorite scarlet poncho, and wore his saddle cloth turned wrong side out, for fear the enemy might make him a special mark.

TO RESTORE WILTED FLOWERS.—According to one of our exchanges, if wilted flowers have about half an inch of their stems cut off, and the stalk thus trimmed inserted into boiling water, they will in a few moments resume almost their original freshness. The process is most applicable to colored flowers, as roses, geraniums, azaleas, &c., white ones turning yellow. Thick petaled flowers show the most marked improvement. Another excellent method of restoring freshness to old flowers is to place them in water, and cover with a glass shade. Finely powdered charcoal placed in the bottom of the water in vases, and the stems of the flowers inserted into it, has a marked effect in maintaining them fresh a long time, and keeping the water sweet.

A MEMBER of the German Customs' Parliament, Herr Bamberger, in one of his letters to his constituents, proposes, half in joke and half in earnest, to lay a tax on pianos. "I have reason to believe," says that gentleman, "that in the teritory of the Zollverein, from the Baltic to the Alps, there are no less than 400,000 pianos of every age and race. Let us suppose that 30,000 of these, the professional implements of music teachers and dancing masters remain duty-free, for the same reason that we leave butchers' and shepherds' dogs untaxed, we shall still have 370,000 which might be subjected to an annual impost of one to four thalers, according to their value. Taking the average taxation at two thalers per piano, this would yield an annual amount of 740,000 thalers." We have no doubt that many quiet, studious people, not only in Germany but in America, would give their enthusiastic support to a measure for abating the piano nuisance.

DR. GREGORY, President of the Illinois State Agricultural University, writing from Munich to a friend in Springfield, Illinois, says: "I called this morning upon Baron Liebig, the father of Agricultural Chemistry, a splendid old man of seventy years, with an eye like an eagle's. 'I am against isolated schools,' said the Baron with the strongest emphasis. So, you see, our plan for the Industrial University is, thus far, in keeping with European experience. Said I: 'Baron Liebig, it is sometimes asserted in America that agricultural education in Europe has proved a failure. How is it?' The old man's eye brightened, and taking his grandest tones, he replied: 'The success has been immense. In Hesse, for instance,' he continued. 'the value of the land has increased three hundred per cent. within the past fifteen years from the simple spread of agricultural science'—an evidence that even an American can appreciate."

THE Russian Government has just made known some new regulations on the subject of passports which are of importance to travelers in general and to the representatives of foreign commercial houses in particular. Every stranger provided with a Russian passport, or a foreign one signed by a Russian ambassador or consul, is at perfect liberty to travel in the interior of the Empire. Jews residing in other countries, especially when they are the commercial travelers of respectable firms, are permitted to visit trading and manufacturing towns, and to remain there a certain time. Every stranger entering Russia with a passport in due form must present himself to the authorities of the principal town in the first government through which he passes, or to those of the port where he lands, or of the town which is his place of destination, and he will then receive a new passport enabling him to travel farther into or reside in the interior of the Empire. Should he have a foreign passport with a Russian vise it will be left in his own possession, and he will receive from the authorities an additional pass or a card of residence. Russian passports are valid for one year only. Russians who desire to go abroad must have a special passport. Travelers arriving in Russia by sea have particular facilities accorded them both with regard to residence and return. Passports are delivered to foreign Jews traveling to localities where their coreligionists are permitted to settle, but valid for these places only.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC AND MANDRAKE PILLS will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the livor and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens into the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well. This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivaled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abcesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflamation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow, the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparation with the same remarkable success. Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond street, New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists. mv19:151-d&F

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

THE GAZETTE is furnished in the city the six days of the week for 15 cents per week; by mail, $8 per annum: 3 mos., $2.

Warden Scandrett has one hundred prisoners under his care at present.

One of the Woodward palace sleeping cars passed through the city yesterday. It goes to San Francisco.

Base Ball Clubs must hereafter take out license at the rate of ten dollars per annum. So says Commissioner Delano.

Building Improvements was never more observable than at the present time, both in Pittsburgh and Allegheny.

Ratification Meeting.—Arrangements are being made for a grand Republican meeting to be held at City Hall on Sept. 2nd, next.

Overflowed. — Liberty street, Allegheny, was flooded to a considerable extent, Thursday night, by the bursting of a water pipe. The damage was repaired yesterday.

Entered Bail.—John Dunn, who was arrested a few days since, on suspicion of being implicated in the robbery of Evans' Variety Store, on Fifth avenue, was released on bail last evening.

Abusing His Wife.—Thomas O'Connor was arrested yesterday at the request of his wife, who, it appears, he had been beating and abusing in a shameful manner. He was locked up for a hearing.

Wrecked.—A through passenger train on the Pennsylvania Railroad, going east, was wrecked twenty miles west of Philadelphia Thursday morning. Several of the cars were badly damaged, but no one was injured.

Free Fight.—A free fight occurred at the house of Mrs. Douglass on Virgin alley, last evening, in which Kate Raney and Mrs. Douglass were the principal participants. Kate was arrested and locked up for a hearing.

Head Bruising.—Yesterday Mr. Geo. Pfeifer, of Ross township, called at Alderman Bolster's office and made information against Mrs. Prinneli, whom he charges with beating him in the head with a rock. Warrant issued.

The Committee on Speakers for the Humboldt Centennial, Gen. Collier chairman, met at the office of the United States District Court on Thursday afternoon, and adjourned to meet for further action on Monday next at the same place at 4 o'clock, P. M.

Belligerent.—Catherine Dummy went into the residence of Margaret Duffy, Virgin alley, beat her with a tin dipper and tore her clothes. An officer was called and arrested Catherine, who was, in default of a fine of $25 and costs, committed for thirty days.

Thanks.—The ladies of the Soldiers Home management have our hearty thanks for as beautiful a boquet of fresh and rare garden treasures as we have ever looked upon, The beauty of the gift is only equalled by the good taste displayed in its management.

Gone to the Springs.—Eleven of our citizens left yesterday evening on a trip to Claremont Springs, where they will sojourn for twenty or thirty days. The party had been boarding with Mr. Scandrett, on the "Hill," for a few days, and were escorted to their new boarding place by officer Dressler.

Disorderly. — Alderman Bolster was honored with a call yesterday from Charles Talbot, who complained that Mary Williams had been conducting herself disorderly by addressing him in language violent and obscene. The parties reside in the Thirty-seventh ward, An officer was dispatched in search of Mary.

Obituary.—Mr. William Stewart, f Library, Pa., one of oldest and most respected citizen of this section of the State, died yesterday morning, age 76 years.

Mr. John R. McKee, a very worthy and estimable citizen, of Shousetown, died on Thursday evening last, in the 51st year of his age.

Alleged False Pretense.—Michael Kline made information before Alderman Bolster, yesterday, against Joseph Schuttung for false pretense. The accused is charged with obtaining fifty dollars as a loan, on the representation that he had that amount due him on a mortgage, statements which are alleged to be false. He was arrested and gave bail for a hearing.

Collecting Trials.—James Allen is an ice dealer. Yesterday he was collecting sundry little bills. Among others he called on Thomas Kirkpatrick. Thomas didn't pay him, he alleges, but instead used insulting language and struck him in the face with his fist. Such conduct, clearly coming under the provisions of the assault and battery act, induced James to call on Alderman Taylor, when a warrant for Thomas' arrest was issued.

Unprofitable Visitors.—Nellie Jones complained to Alderman McMasters yesterday that David McClann, with a friend, visited her on the previous evening, and while she was engaged in conversation with his friend David managed to secure and carry off two jars of preserves, valued at seven dollars. Defendant is employed at the Outer Depot, Allegheny, whither officer Blondin was sent in search of him.

Till Tapping.—James Moran and Joseph Rice, two young men, were arrested last evening on a charge of till tapping. It appears that they were in Seidle's beer saloon on Liberty street and while the bar tender was engaged at the back part of the room they broke open the till and took out the contents, amounting to about $23. A portion of the money was found in their possession and identified by Mr. Seidle. They were locked up for a hearing.

Too Much Gas.—Henry Wolf, an employe of the Pittsburgh Gas Company, narrowly escaped suffocation yesterday while engaged in laying gas pipe on Fourth avenue. He was in the trench inspecting or working at a joint, and the gas not having been fully turned off, escaped to such an extent as to almost suffocate him. Some of his companions saw him fall and removed him from the trench. He was insensible for some minutes, but finally recovered.

Ungallant Threat.—Kate McManus alleges that James Carey threatened to kick her. Carey is Captain of a towboat on which Kate made a trip to Louisville as cook. The ungallant threat is said to have been made when Kate demanded her wages. She states he threatened to kick her off the boat, and avowed his determination to act in a similar manner whenever they met anywhere. Alderman McMasters had the case before him. Carey was arrested and gave bail for a hearing.

Claremont Springs will be the fashionable and polite name for the new county work house. It will doubtless prove as healthy to the guests as any of the more pretentious springs of the country for hard work and substantial food will be the conspicuous features.

Malicious Mischief.—A. Aronson, a clothier on Sixth and Liberty street, made information before Alderman Humbert yesterday, charging Henry Gottschey with malicious mischief. He alleges that the accused split his sign board with a hatchet. He was arrested and held for Court.

Completed.—The First Cumberland Presbyterian Church, Sixth avenue, (Rev. E. R. Squires pastor) which has been closed for several weeks undergoing repairs, will be opened for service to-morrow, the repairs having been completed. The building has been repainted and frescoed and the lecture room refitted and furnished, and it now presents quite a handsome and comfortable appearance.

The Aquatic Honor.—The friends of Jimmy Hamill and Harry Coulter met last evening for the purpose of arranging another race between them. After considerable discussion concerning the late race, it was decided to hold it over again at as early a period as practicable. The friends of both contestants will meet to-night at the saloon of John S. Kennedy, No. 70 Smithfield street, to decide the time and place for the second meeting

Heavy Advertising.—Our sprightly and well circulated contemporary, the Republic, elsewhere announces the fact that Dr. Keyser, the eminent physician of this city, who has spent over one hundred thousand dollars in advertising, has closed a contract for one page of that journal for two months. This is decided enterprise, and nobody knows better than Dr. Keyser how well advertising pays, when it is backed by true merit, worth and excellence.

Novel Wager.—One of the bets lost last evening at the skiff race provides for the climbing of the telegraph post at the corner of Fifth avenue and Smithfield street by the losing party, this evening at half past seven o'clock and to remain at the top thereof fifteen minutes. The loser, a well-known velocipedestrian, announces that he will faithfully perform the feat, with a flag in his mouth, according to agreement, under pain of an hundred dollar forfeiture.

Youthful Dissipation.—Tuesday evening a trio of boys, ranging in ages from twelve to fifteen years, residents of the Sixth ward, Allegheny, procured a quantity of whisky somewhere and became intoxicated. The father of one of the boys yesterday made information before Mayor Drum against George Exler, a tavern keeper in the vicinity, charging him with selling liquor to minors, the boys alleging they procured the beverage at his establishment. The accused was arrested and after a hearing gave bail for Court. He asserts positively that the article was not sold in his establishment.

Bury the Victims.—If the Mayor persists in poisoning dogs, he should be very careful in having the carcasses removed at once. On Washington street, opposite Dithridge's glass works, a large victim to poisoned buttons, has been lying exposed to the heat of the sun for about a week, and the stench arising therefrom is enough to cause sickness. Other like cases might be noted, and we certainly would prefere dogs innumerable at large, rather than a visit from the cholera. Bury the dead Messrs. police officers, even if you should take a scalp from each to remind you of your gallant deeds in the poisoning direction.

Preserving Jars.

Formerly, housekeepers in preserving fruits, used as receptacles tin cans prepared for the purpose. A great improvement has been made lately on this old method, and now no good housekeeper thinks of using anything but jars for this purpose. They are much superior in every respect Messrs. S. M. Kier & Co., proprietors of the Keystone Pottery, have on hand a large quantity of the most approved kinds of these articles at their warehouse, No. 363 Liberty street, Pittsburgh. Our readers should not forget to give 363 a call in making their purchases.

Mortuary Report.

Dr. W. Snively, Physician of the Board of Health, reports the following interments in the city of Pittsburgh from August 1st to August 7th, 1869:

Diseases—Unknown, 1; Old Age, 2; Anæmia, 3; Marasmus, 1; Dropsy, 2; Gystitis, 1; Whooping Cough, 2; Pneumonia, 1; Scarlet Fever, 3; Typhoid Fever, 2; Congestive Fever, 1; Hepatic Abscess, 1; Hepatitis, 1; Cerebral Congestion, 2; Gastro-Enteritis, 2; Cholera Infantum, 5; Dysentery, 4; Convulsions, 1; Tuberculosis, 2; Still Born, 1.

Unsuccessful.

Yesterday afternoon a couple of men entered the clothing store of Mr. Louis Colskey, 230 Liberty street, and while one pretended to examine some clothing, thus detracting the attention of the clerk, the other went through the till, abstracting therefrom four dollars and twenty-five cents. The operation was discovered immediately after they had left the store. Officer Weisenbern was notified, and succeeded in tracking one of them to the Union Depot, where he arrested him. The chap gave his name as James McKennan, and when searched had in his possession only one dollar and eighty cents. He was identified as the till tapper and locked up for a hearing. People who have a penchant for tilling should be accommodated, but not exactly in this manner. The soil at the Work House would be a very appropriate field for operations.

Alleged Forger Arrested.

Mr. F. M. Cash, a resident of Memphis, accompanied by a detective from Cincinnati, arrived in this city yesterday, in search of A. P. Beaumont, lately a telegraph operator in Cincinnati, who, it is alleged, had forged a check and a telegraphic message. It is also alleged that he has been guilty of counterfeiting dispatches. It appears that he left Cincinnati, Wednesday evening, for this city, but instead of stopping here went on to Oil City. On the arrival of Mr. Cash, yesterday, he made inquiry at the office of the telegraph company concerning Beaumont, and learned that they were also anxious to secure his arrest, and on learning his whereabouts telegraphed to the authorities at Oil City to have him arrested. Shortly afterwards an answer was received announcing the arrest of the man, and Mr. Cash, accompanied by the detective, started for Oil City, for the purpose of removing the prisoner to Memphis.

Aquatic—An Exciting Skiff Race.

The inside rim of the real sporting circle was considerably excited during the past week over the announcement that two well known gymnasts would contest for superiority in aquatic ability, in a skiff race arranged to take place last evening, on the Allegheny course, between the Suspension and old Hand street bridges. The men, both elegant specimens of humanity, went into rigid training, and speculation was rife as to which should prove victorious. Bets were freely offered, equally on both men, and, so far as we could learn, fully two thousand dollars were staked on the result. At the appointed hour, seven o'clock, about two thousand persons gathered on the wharf to witness the contest between the water giants who had become, from systematic training, as tough as leather. They both promptly appeared. Mr. P. was attired in a black shirt and close fitting red pants, and had a little flag on the stem of his skiff, bearing the motto of an ancient aquatic sport of his own name, "We have met the enemy and they are ours." Mr. H., his competitor, as we heard men say, looked a Hamill all over. He was attired in a blue shirt and white pants. His muscles stood out like awnings from a shop window, and his dip was better than a Sawyer ever produced. He rowed leisurely up to the improvised stake boat and after mentioning something about a want of spirit in this county in such matters, announced his readiness to strike and pull for the coveted purse of the cool hundred dollars. The judges and referee, all well known sports, took their place in a swift yawl provided for the occasion, and all being in readiness the word "go" was given. H. shot ahead making a few quick, spasmodic efforts, causing his boat to fairly leap from the water. P. pulled leisurely, but steadily, and before twenty yards of the course was gone over had the bow of his rather awkward vessel in advance of that of his rival. Midway between the starting and the turning points, the two collided and there was a clatter and clash of oars. Both instantly cried out "foul," but as neither had uttered the talismanic word first, after a few minutes parlance they concluded to go on. P. shot ahead and was loudly cheered by his friends, while H. was urged to renewed exertions by his backers on the shore, who called out to him in loud tones to put on steam and not to give up. The latter, in a brilliant spurt, overtook P. and soon left him behind, being the first to turn the buoy. The measured and continued efforts of P. soon regained for him equality in the race, and the home stretch was as pretty and as exciting a piece of aquatic rivalry as we ever witnessed. Both showed grand powers of endurance, elegant training and very decided ability as rowers. When within thirty yards of the starting point, P. got the lead and kept it till he crossed the line, coming in fourteen feet in advance of his plucky competitor, or losing by about three seconds in time. Mr. P. was loudly cheered and on stepping aboard the Judges' boat announced his intention to challenge Coulter, provided Hamil beats him in the coming contest, or Hamill, if Coulter beats him. The race was a decided success, and was so fairly and honorably conducted as to considerably revive the lost interest in the fouling spat. All the bets were promptly handed over to the lucky winners, and universal satisfaction prevailed.

The Democracy

Will to-day hold their primary meetings throughout the county, and due orders have been issued to secure the legality of the elections to be held. The most important contest will be that for County Commissioner, as there seems to be a dissension in the Republican ranks in favor of the temperance candidate. There are three popular candidates in the field on the part of the opposition, viz: Mr. Isaac Bausman, a well known Allegheny politician, Mr. James Irwin, a strong Pittsburgh leader of the Democracy, hailing from the all powerful Second ward, and Mr. W. H. McGee, the favorite of Allegheny City. We do not know how the contest will result. All are good men, but all cannot be nominated. But little interest is manifested in the other offices, which the Democracy are to fill by nomination next week. The Commissionership is the only position they have any hope of filling, owing to the dissension in the Republican ranks created by the Republican members thereof withdrawing favorable to the cause of Temperance and the Temperance candidate, Mr. Isaiah Dickey.

The Iron City College,

Whose advertisement appears elsewhere, is an institution whose merits are appreciated and gratefully acknowledged wherever its name is known But few enterprises possess so brilliant a record or can point to so many evidences of merited success. Scores of our prominent business men took their first steps here, and there is hardly a city or town in the Union which does not number among its successful merchants, bankers or business men, representatives of this college.

With a full faculty of capable and devoted instructors, and the best and most approved methods in existence for imparting thorough practical instruction, the college was never in better condition than now, and under the managment of its present energetic and accomplished principals, Messrs. Smith & Cowley, we predict for its future a still larger measure of popularity and success.

After the Ball.

Oliver Graham a few evenings since attended a festive gathering where he shone brilliantly in a pair of nether garments, borrowed expressly for the occasion, from his brother George—as George asserts. This was proper enough, the glory was all in the family, but the subsequent actions of Oliver, if as alleged, were peculiarly aggravating. After the ball, it is said he refused to return the resplendent articles. Not only refused to return, but donned them to wear about his every day employment. He is a hostler in a livery stable, in this city. Such a breach of faith was to much for George's feelings. He sought legal comfort at Alderman McMaster's office. As a result Oliver was arrested and compelled to give bail for his appearance at Court for larceny as bailee. Seven dollars was the appraised value of the articles.

Aggravated Assault and Battery.

An affair occurred at Cunningham's Glass House, in Birmingham, Thursday night, between Nicholas Gardiner and Charles Kahl, in which the former received injuries, which it is feared may proye fatal. The parties were quarrelling while at work, when it is alleged Kahl struck Gardiner in the head with a shovel seriously injuring him. Yesterday Mrs. Gardiner, the wife of the injured man, made information before Justice Heisel, charging Kahl with aggravated assault and battery. A warrant was issued, upon which the accused was arrested and committed to jail to await the result of Gardiner's injuries.

Music for All.

Among the many establishments which do honor and credit to the energy and taste of our merchants, the beautiful and commodious new musical emporium of Messrs. Mellor & Hoene, Fifth avenue, is especially attractive. Mr. Mellor will be remembered as proprietor of the musical headquarters formerly located at 81 Wood street, while Mr. Hoene, late of the firm of Hoffman, Hoene & Co., will need no introduction to the musical people of Pittsburgh. These gentlemen having united their interests, are now proprietors of one of the most complete and perfect establishments of the character west of the mountains. Their extensive experience and thorough-going business qualifications have been put to the test in fitting up their rooms, with a result which makes it perfectly safe to say that whatever cannot be purchased there is not known to the musical world. In the four stories of the building which they occupy is contained everything in the line of musical goods or instruments from the tiniest jewsharp to the most powerful organ or superb square piano, and are of the best quality and most approved styles and patterns. In sheet music, musical materials, &c., they offer especial inducements and purchasers will find a stock selected with unusual care, while in the line of pianos and organs a visit to the departments especially devoted to these branches will attest the character of the stock. We heartily commend the new firm to purchasers, wholesale or retail, who, we feel assured, will find it hard to do better than patronize this first class establishment.

Truth in a Nut Shell.

Life Insurance—The Case Well Put.

A morning paper says: If we are to believe the statements of the Eastern Life Insurance Agencies doing business in this city, there is taken annually from Pittsburgh, as a local center, more than a million of dollars. If this drain is to be continued in an increasing ratio, what is to become of our local business interests?

This vast sum, if kept at home, will employ five thousand workmen, build one thousand dwellings, do five millions' worth of business, not only once, but year after year, and if one year's expenditure will do all this, what strides of prosperity might we not look for if this drain were stopped?

We believe in life insurance, and wish it all proper success, but it is very clear that the injury to our local interests, occasioned by sending our money east for this kind of investment, is far greater than any possible benefit that the community will ever receive. Let every Pitsburgher insure by all means, but let him consult the community's interest and doubly serve his own by patronizing a home institution. We give our preference to the "Co-operative," not only for the reasons above stated, but because we think its system of business the simplest, safest, fairest and best.

Truth in a Nut Shell—Look for it.

Gossip.

The women are quite famous for
Their spreading news around;
Old Mother Pry, just on the sly,
Steps in to Mrs. Brown,
And peering o'er her glasses,
Denoting her no churl,
She seats herself to have a chat
On the gossip of the world.

"Good gracious, have you heard the news?"
No; "why bless me, is that so?
Why every woman far and near
Has heard it long ago.
You know old Susan Simpkins
In the upper end of town,
Well she's done gone got married,"
"Dew tell," says Mrs. Brown.

"You know for twenty years or more,
Her face has wrinkled been,
And full ten thousand freckles
Have blotched her sallow skin.
Well, strange, indeed, as it may seem.
That horrid, ugly girl
Has been rejuvenized to youth
With Urben's Blooming Pearl.

And with her fair and blooming skin
She caught a rich young man,
As handsome as the handsomest
To be found in the land.
Now is it not a curious thing,
That a pearl this Urben's found,
To give the skin such youthful tints!"
"It is," says Mrs. Brown.

Urben's BLOOMING PEARL, the great complexion beautifier, is sold everywhere at 50 cents per bottle.

Sweet Meats in Summer.—The prudent should remember that in this warm, sweltering weather, nothing is so healthful and cooling to the system as such delicious sweetmeats as Mr. George Beaven, the famous Allegheny manufacturer and fruiterer, keeps on hand. At his clean, cosy and well kept store, No. 112 Federal street, will be found all the morsels of pure sweetmeats the old and new world can boast, together with all the tropical fruits and nuts. Let none of our readers pass his door without making a purchase.

Fresh Evidence of the Superiority of the Great American Button Hole, Overseaming and Combination Family Sewing Machine.

It is only a few days since we published quite an array of names of persons who are now using the Great American Button Hole and Overseaming and General Family Sewing Machine, for which Mr. James Espy, Jr., is the courteous agent, corner of Fifth avenue and Market street. The popularity of these really best sewing machines in the market daily increases, and each week many new names are added to those who choose them above all others for their family sewing. They are neat and noiseless, durable and strong in all their parts, simple to operate, easy to repair when out of order, and combining several sewing machines in one, accomplish all the work the hand sewer would attempt, and that, too, in an exquisitely perfect manner. These are the purchasers for the past week, to whom reference can be made to ascertain the superior qualities of the machine. Read the list carefully:

Truth in a Nut Shell—More of it.

The language of nature and experience demonstrates that whoever would enjoy the pleasures of food, the beauties of landscape, the joys of companionship, the riches of literature, or the honors of station and renown, must preserve their health. The effect of foul, injurious food, entering the stomach, is to derange the digestive organs and produce headache, loss of appetite, unrefreshing sleep, low spirits, feverish burnings, etc., which are the symptoms of that horrid disease, Dyspepsia, which assumes a thousand shapes, and points toward a miserable life and premature decay. PLANTATION BITTERS will prevent, overcome and counteract all of these effects. They act with unerring power, and are taken with the pleasure of a beverage.

MAGNOLIA WATER.—Superior to the best imported German Cologne, and sold at half the price. TH.S.T.F.

The best and Original Tonic of Iron, Phosphorus and Calisaya, known as Caswell, Mack & Co's Ferro Phosphorated Elixir of Calisaya Bark. The Iron restores color to the blood, the Phosphorus renews waste of the nerve tissue, and the Calisaya gives a natural healthful tone to the digestive organs, thereby curing dyspepsia in its various forms, Wakefulness, General Debility and Depression of Spirits. Manufactured only by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York. Sold by all druggists. s
